Section 1 – Introduction

The Code of Corporate Governance for Banks and Discount Houses in Nigeria – 2014 (which replaced 2006 CBN Code), requires Nigerian banks to implement Whistleblowing procedures. The Code of Corporate Governance specifically states that “Banks should establish ‘whistleblowing’ procedures that encourage (including by assurance of confidentiality) all stakeholders (staff, customers, suppliers, contractors etc.) to report any unethical activity/breach of the Corporate Governance code using, among others, a special e-mail or hotline to both the bank and the CBN”. Furthermore, the recent Nigerian Code of Corporate Governance 2018, part B, section 19 requires all Nigerian companies to establish and implement a whistleblowing framework “to encourage stakeholders to bring unethical conducts and violations of law and regulations to the attention of an internal or external authority so that action can be taken to verify the allegations and apply appropriate sanctions or take remedial actions to correct any harm done”, and that the framework “should be known to employees and external stakeholders”.

Section 2 – Policy Statement

Polaris Bank Limited is committed to the pursuit of the principles of high integrity and sound business practices and therefore conducts its affairs in a manner consistent with the relevant laws and codes of corporate governance in Nigeria. This commitment by the Bank informed the initial implementation of a Whistleblower Policy. The Whistleblower reporting system is designed to make it as simple as possible for employees and other persons to report cases of misdeed or dishonest acts or other disclosures while they are assured of the highest level of confidentiality.

It is expected that an effective and protected reporting framework will encourage employees to report suspected or known acts of fraud and improper conduct by making it easier, more confidential and less adversarial. Furthermore, the Bank believes that a sound whistleblower mechanism is an important preventive measure to help combat fraud and corruption in the workplace. Thus, making it easier and less risky for stakeholders to raise concerns internally and facilitate the taking of corrective action and reduce the incidence of avoidable loss of assets and reputation.

The whistleblowing guidelines issued by Polaris Bank Limited protect employees and other stakeholders against detrimental treatment or dismissal as a result of any disclosure by them to the Management and the CBN of information normally considered as confidential in the interest of all stakeholders of the Bank.

The policy encompasses a framework of principles, processes and procedures for reporting, assessing and investigating improper conduct. It describes how employees and other stakeholders could report fraud or improper conduct and how such reports would be dealt with.

Section 3 – What is Whistleblowing?

Whistleblowing is a specific means by which an employee or any other stakeholder can report or disclose, through established channels, concerns about unethical behaviors, malpractices, illegal acts or failure to comply with regulatory requirements that are taking place/ have taken place/ might take place in the future.

Section 4 – Why Should We Blow the Whistle?

Silence may connote that we condone misconduct or we are accomplices in the acts of misconduct. Failure to blow the whistle at the right time, may cast doubt on our integrity and loyalty to the institution. As stakeholders, we all have the right and duty to REPORT as “Swallowing the Whistle” (Doing Nothing or Silence) could lead to unchecked fraud and misconduct. All unreported frauds portend the danger of loss of assets, loss of jobs and loss of other benefits that may adversely affect everyone, including YOU and ME. When we report, corrective action will be taken and this will go a long way in the life and performance of the Bank.
