

Scottish Cycling | The Way Forward Guidance for Covid-19 Coordinators

All clubs wishing to return to organised activity under the Scottish Cycling Guidance should appoint a Covid-19 Coordinator to be the identified contact with Scottish Cycling to receive information in relation to the impact of Covid-19 on clubs, and lead on the implementation of new measures as they are introduced.

This role must be in close contact with the Club Committee and where applicable, the Club Coaching/ Leadership team. The role can be added to the remit of an existing committee member (such as the Wellbeing and Protection Officer) or co-opted onto the committee temporarily for the duration that the role is required.

A job description for a Covid Coordinator can be found here.

Clubs should submit the details of their Covid Coordinator to Scottish Cycling by completing this form.

Nominated Covid Coordinators are required to complete the Covid Officer E-Learning Module, available here. This module is compulsory for all Covid Coordinators in order to support the understanding of the role and measures which need to be implemented.
